THE SUPERPLAN

A being nothingness is not a nothingness

Any intellectual construct is just as stable and as strong, as deep and as high, as wide and as free as it has been built upon unshakeable, axiomatic foundations. Yet the most variable bricks must have been put together consistently, in order that the potentially cumulative gaps do not weaken the static mechanical equilibrium but engender doorways and windows Their vaults and arches should interconnect the incommensurable, while the towers and the peaks touch the heavens. And the altogether, following the justifying laws of causal-logic, first insight will generate truth, then shall truth generate beauty and lastly beauty shall generate perfection. And all together they shall generate what really is good: an eternal and worthy residence for the free, omnipotent, homeless creative genius.
